PARADE OPENS CHARLEROI'S ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION SHORTLY BEFORE NOON

Charleroi's big Anniversary celebration is proving all that was anticipated today, and the thousands of people that are here from nearby places are being entertained royally. The affair is one of the largest ever held in Charleroi of a similar kind.

The only event of the morning was the parade. In this the borough officials, citizens, and some visiting delegations participated.

The parade was led by the police on horseback. Following them were about 30 automobiles, in which rode the members of the borough council, Charleroi citizens, and a number of noted visitors. Near the lead was the John A. Wood band, and in the line was the Naomi band. Bringing up the rear after a number of ponies ridden by their boy owners, was the Marianna drum corps.

The parade was viewed by thousands of persons scattered along the streets. The line was on McKean avenue, Fallowfield and Washington.

This afternoon the principal event is the automobile hill climbing contest. There are a number of autos out, many being brought from other towns, and some inspiring races are expected.

The ball game, firemen's drill, bicycle and foot races are other afternoon events. The leading events of the evening is the competitive drill between the Charleroi Boys Brigade and the Monessen and Monongahela Cadets.

INSTITUTE WILL BE HELD BY THE ROSCOE SCHOOLS

A teachers' intstiute will be held by the Roscoe teachers at the Roscoe Presbyterian church on Saturday night. It is planned to have several good speakers present, among which may be Prof. L. R. Crumrine, conuty supernitendent. The purpose of the institute is to give the education movement an impetus in Roscoe and vicinity.

The program will be a general one of educational, literary and musical features. The institute will be public, and indications are that there will be a good attendance.

Among the speakers will be Dr. H. B. Davis, principal of the California school, Rev. Theodore Hunter, Prof. Polock, and Prof. O. O. Saylor, the latter of Brownville. Besides these there will be others on the program.

There will be special music furnished for the occasion of instrumental and vocal selections. The Charleroi Ladies Double Quartet, composed of Misses Elsie Crill, Florence Crill, Rosetta and Patti Rodgers, May Barth, Mary Walters, Price Frye, and Mrs. A H. Bosson has been engaged, and will render one or more selections.

SURVIVOR OF CHERRY DISASTER LECTURES AT PALACE THEATER

Large crowds attended the three shows at the Palace Theatre last night where in addition to the regular program appered Q. Antenore, one of the 20 miners who were taken out alive of the ill-fated Cherry mine in Illinois after being entombed for eight days. After a number of stereopticon pictures were shown of scenes of the mine before and after the explosion, Antenore appeared on the stage with his miner's lamp on his cap and wearing the clothes he had on at the time. He told the story of his thrilling experience of being buried alive for eight days and the miraculous escape of his 19 companions. An account, of the disaster containing Antenore's portrait appears in the March number of McClure's magazine.

So well did the lectures take that Manager R. L. Barnhart arranged for Antenore to remain over tonight and repeat his appearances. The moving pictures are changed tonight.

MINERS CELEBRATE EIGHT HOUR DAY IN UP RIVER TOWNS

At Roscoe and Brownvsille today the miners are celebrating the eight-hour day anniversary. At Roscoe there was a parade in the morning and this afternoon there are field games being held. At Brownsville there is a general miner's demonstration. At the latter place President Francis Feehan of this ditsrict is one of the speakers. At Roscoe A. H. Anderson, candidate for the Republican nomination for State senator, will be one of the peakers.

WILL COST $1.00 EACH

Guarantors Will be Called Upon to Make up Deficit.

At a meeting of a number of the guarantors of the Citizen's Entertainment course at the borough building last night, arrangements were made for the paying of the deficit of $38.00 which exists on the course which was just lately finished. There were 40 guarantors of the past course, and the sum of $1.00 will be asked from each one, owing to incidentals and the fact that one or two have re-momoved from this vicinity. Fred Cleribue and Prof. James R. Huston were appointed a committee to see the guarantors, and to secure a list of not less than 40 people for the coming year, to act as guarantors.

After a list of the names of the coming year are secured, a meeting will be called for the election of an executive committee, to have charge of securing a course for the coming year. It was generally thought that last year's course was a good one. The committee which had charge was composed of Rev. G. G. Kerr, president; Fred Clerihue, secretary; S. K. Scott, treasurer; R. Dale Jolliffe, Dr. J. W. Manon and Prof. James R. Huston.

GEORGE COLLINS PREFERS CASH TO AUTO WON IN POPULARITY CONTEST

George Collins, the winner of the Reo Automobile, the first grand prize in the Mail-Mirror Popularity Subscription Contest by the Mail Publishnig company, which closed last Saturday after a nine weeks' campaign, has accepted a cash consideration instead of the machine. Mr. Collins' letter requesting this is as follows:

Rocsoe, Pa., March 29, 1910.

Mail Publishing Company,
Charleroi, Pa.

Gentlemen—Have received your notice that I am the winner of the First Grand Prize in your big contest, and cannot find words to express my gratitude to the many friends who supported me. The good feeling that was shown by Saturday night's demonstration in Chraleroi when the result was made known means much more to me than the prize itself, although I fully appreciate the value of what you are giving to me. Owing to the cost of maintaining an automobile, and for other reasons, can you not give me the equivalent in cash, as I would have to take steps at once to dispose of the machine to meet my requirements.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Geroge Collins.

As this was immaterial to the Mail Publishing company, an offer was made which was immediately accepted. Accordingly a check was mailed Mr. Collins, which was gratefully acknowledged, and both he and his many friends are well satisfied with the result of the contest.

Public Sale.

Saturday, April 2, at the home of Jennie Newman, 1013, Linclon Avenue will be offered for sale the following house goods: Beds, bedding, chiffoniers, dressers, stands, sideboards, sewing machine, washing machine, refrigerator, tables, chairs, rockers, heating stoves, large range, carpets, matting, linoleum, dishes, pictures, cooking utensils, etc. Jacob Aamlong, auctioneer. 1814p

Euchre a Success.

One of the pleasing social events of the week was the Lady Maccabees euchre at P. H. C. Hall last night. A large crowd was in attendance, and much interest was manifested in the affair. Handsome favors were awarded, two for ladies, two for men, and one for lone hand. The euchre was one of the most successful events of the kind held by the society for some time.

Reward

A reward will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons tearing down or mutilating the Hermes Ice Cream signs on the front of stores about town. Ohio and Pitteburg Dairy and Ice Cream company. 191tl

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT

Miners and Operators Sanguine of Definite Results Within Few Days

In connection with the Anniversary celebration in Charleroi today, which is also the anniversary of the coal miners' eight-hour day, is a most sanguine feeling among the miners that the wage scale controversy will reach a speedy settlement. With the old wage scale being ineffective tomorrow and no new one yet signed, thus compelling a temporay suspension of operations, Pittsburg operators will meet formally in the office of the Pittsburg Coal company tomorrow afternoon in Pittsburg to discuss the wage question.

Miners and operators agree that no work will be resumed after the holiday today, on either Saturday or Sunday. The probability of Monday brings a difference of opinion.

Pittsburg operators are practically a unit upon being willing to meet the 5-cent increase and the powder question seems to be ready for solution. Some of the operators hang back declaring that the introduction of new explosives would mean that they would eventually be forced to grant another increase to meet the additional expense.

Word has been received from President Lewis that he will be in Pittsburg next week. He is apparently sanguine that the cessation of operations will be of short duration.

MONESSEN PIANIST COMPOSES CLASSIC

Charleroi people will be interested in the success of Miss Nelle McMahan of Monessen who has just finished a musical composition that bids fair to give her an enviable recognition and to the musical world a classical work of more than passing merit. Miss McMahan has secured a copyright for her composition now, and it is in the hands of the publishers. It will be issued at an early date by the Oliver Ditson company of New York.

Miss McMahon dedicated the piece to Sister Regis of St. Xaviers college, near Latrobe, under whose instruction she graduated with high honors several years ago. It is written in waltz time and is named "Der Ger sang des Nachtwindes," ("The Song of the Night Wind.") It is classical and has been highly commended by a number of authorities who have heard it.

Miss McMahan is known to a number of Charleroi people both as a pianist and in a social way. She is a niece of Thomas L. Daly, the well known banker, residing at North Charleroi, and has given considerable time to musical accomplishments with flattering success. As a teacher she is quite successful and has taken a number of awards at recitals following graduation from St. Xavier's.

It is not often that a composer is accorded the ready welcome Miss McMahan has received from the publishers and her friends believe that she has achieved something beyond the ordinary in composition.

INVITES ANY CITIZEN OF CHARLEROI TO CALL AT LOS ANGELES HOME

"Just tell everybody for me that I will be more than glad to see them at my new Los Angeles home, after I am settled," said Joseph Kenyon yesterday, when he stopped in the Mail office to leave an add. Mr. Kenyon is preparing to remove to Los Angeles, California, in the near future. He is one of Charleroi's best known men, having been connected with the town for about 12 years. He has been superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school more than three years and was district superintendent of the Charleroi district, Washington County Sabbath School Association last year. The invitation which he so generously extends to the public in general is well meant and extended, as he puts it, to all.

Ice Cream in bricks is a nice way to serve Ice Cream. You can get them at Wagner's any time. 190t

BUILDING OPERATIONS BOOMING IN CHARLEROI AND NEARBY VICINITY

S. K. Scott, the local building contractor, says that building operations are booming at the present time in Charleroi and vicinity. In Charleroi there is a noticeable increase in the number of buildings of various natures being put up, and in nearby towns and community it is said to be the same.

Mr. Scott stated last night that he is being kept busy nowadays and has so much to do that he fears he will have to give up at least one of his large contracts, the Ellsworth Presbyteran church. There are two buildings here now on which he is employed at the present time, both on McKean avenue, one for Patrick Connelly, between Seventh and Eighth streets, an eight-room dwelling, and the other between Fifth and Sixth street, opposite the Hotel Arthur. This is to be a brick structure of a store room and two flats, containing in all about 10 rooms. It is being erected by J. T. Antrom, of Hestersburg, and will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000. The excavating work has not yet been completed.

The Ellsworth Presbyterian church, for which Mr. Scott has the contract, will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 when finished. The heating and decorating is reserved. Mr. Scott's contract price is $6,000.

LITTLE BOY SAYS "GET UP," AND STARTS RUNAWAY

When a small boy, unable to resist the impulse to hasten April Fool day a trifle, said "Get Up," to the team of T. P. Grant's yesterday he nearly caused a dire catastrophe. The horses obeyed and rejoicing in their freedom started on a run up the street, before being stopped dashing into a carriage of S. K. Leonard, in front of his livery barn, and smashing it somewhat.

The affair happened at about 3 o'clock. The team was quietly standing in front of Mr. Grant's hardware store on Fallowfield avenue, when the small boy happened along. He was only about 6 or 7 years old, but imbued with a spirit of practical jokes, casually glanced over the situation, then said "Get Up." That was all that was necessary and in a moment there was a wild runaway.

The horses continued on a straight course up Fallowfield and ran plunk into the carriage in front of the barn. It was overturned and the horses fell. Neither of the animals were injured, and did not seem frightened but the carriage was broken. A lamp was torn off, an axel was bent, and the exterior was scratched, besides other damages.

SIGNS OF ICE CREAM COMPANY BEING TORN DOWN IN THE BOROUGH

The tasty arrangements of the Hermes Ice Cream signs, which have been posted in front of various stores in Charleroi, as an advertisement of the Hermes Ice Cream, for which a branch has been opened in North Charleroi, has been the occasion for a display of hoodlumism in Charleroi the past few days. Many of the signs have been torn down as soon, almost, as put up, and a reward has been offered for anyone furnishing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the parties guilty of the crimes.

Have Moved Store

The McDermott Creamery Products firm yesterday moved their store from the Fleming building, on Fallowfield avenue, to the First street store recently occupied by the F. W. Woolworth and company's 5 and 10-cent store.

PRETTY ROMANCE TO CULMINATE IN CHURCH WEDDING

A pretty romance, which originated in a prayer meeting of the great Welsh revival three years ago, will culminate in a church wedding at the First Baptist church here one day next week, when Rev. Clifford Seton Joshua, the pastor of the church, and Miss Margaret May James, lately of Senghenydd, Wales, will be married. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. H. C. Gleiss, corresponding secretary of the Pittsburg Baptist Association, through whose offices Rev. Joshua located in Charleroi. Miss James is at present on her way to America to join her fiancee, and it is expected will arrive in New York on Saturday. She will spend a day or so there before coming on to Charleroi for the wedding.

The invited guests to the wedding will constitute the members of the church and the congregation, and a reception will be tendered the popular pastor and his bride immediately afterwards.

Miss James is a noted elocutionist of Wales, and last June at a national eistedfodd held in Royal Albert Hall, London, took second prize for superior elocutionary work. This is one of the national events patronized by King Edward, and at this particular affair his presence was felt. In Wales some of the semi-national eisteddfodds she has taken first prize and her exceptional talent has to show for it medals, gifts from noted people. She is the daughter of the late Rev. James, and very well connected. Rev. Joshua is the son of Rev. Joshua, and besides belonging to a long generation of a family of ministers, has for his uncle, Rev. Seth Joshua, the national Welsh evangelist.

It was in Miss James' home town that the couple met. Evan Roberts, whose wonderful conversion was the signal for the starting of the great Welsh revival which extended for a period of three years, was in charge of a prayer meeting at a church in Senghenydd, and Rev. Joshua was there, if need be to assist. Miss James attended, and fate led the couple together. From that time forth their destinies have mingled, to culminate if everything turns out as expected, in the wedding next week.

A Perilous Occupation.

Those who heard the thrilling narrative of Q. Antenore, who appeared at the Palace Theatre last night, and who is there again tonight, will realize most vividly the perils that accompany the hazardous occupation of coal mining. Antenore is one of the survivors of the terrible Cherry mine disaster, in Illinois, and was rescued with nineteen others after an entombment of eight days in the burning shaft of the ill-fated mine. Clad in the clothes he wore at the time, with his miner's lamp on his cap, his simple but graphic story in broken English is most thrilling.

When it is realized that precautions fety that advanced mine engi- have demonstrated to be essen- in some instances entirely e wonder is that men can to risk their lives in the g. The method seems to n to trust entirely to provi- and to take the risk, ore disasters have not oc- d have been due mostly to good uck than good management. It was perhaps the simplicity of methods used and the experience and watchfulness of the men employed that is responsible for the safety of the operatives. Now, with methods more complicated and extensive, and with less experienced labor in many instances, the danger is doubly enhanced. This means the enforced installation of more safety appliances, and inevitably an inreased cost in coal mining. Economy that is dangerous can no longer be employed.

A Pattern Maker.

Charleroi is in gala attire today, celebrating the twentieth anniversay of the founding of the town. The streets are thronged with visitors and holiday seekers, and at this writing everything augurs well for a successful termination of the entertainment program.

It is not necessary to dwell upon the causes and means that have made Charleroi great. The answer to this is obvious in the efforts that are being put forth today to make this celebration a success. It is the united efforts of the citizens of Charleroi that is making the town the best trade center and the most progressive community of the valley. What the people are doing today is what they have done from the beginning. Whenever anything was necessary for the advancement or the glorification of Charleroi the people were alive to the occasion. They measured up to the requirements, and united hustling did the rest. Strangers who would like to know the secret of Charleroi's progressiveness are invited to look around and meet the people. The workings of the process will then be revealed.

Great is the Toad.

A pamphlet recently issued by Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture pays a glowing tribute to the toad, says a writer in Success Magazine. According to this high authority, few creatures of its size have suffered more from false witnesses. It is not true that it causes warts, poisons infants or spoils cows' milk. On the contrary, it has an amicable disposition, a good singing voice—for those who like that sort of thing—and above all, most commendable industry.

An able-bodied toad eats $19.44 (wholesale rates) worth of injurious worms and insects every season. It is a most efficient ultimate consumer, and it likes best those things which the farmer likes least. It is home-loving and very fond of children—its own childen. No farmer or suburbanite should try to get along without a couple of good toads.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

When Kennedy came to Donora, the Washington Observer had him overwhelmed by the enthusiasm of the people of Tener's home community. Investigations revealed a pipe dream.

We can't understand why so many people are leaving town. Will somebody please explain?

Let's ont have very much of a strike. The effects of it makes people hungry.

A way to insure a good job on a "big time circuit" in the vaudeville line is to get some new jokes, actually new ones.

How in the world is a fellow going to move forward any more in the car when the motorman won't let him?

When you hear of a woman dying for love, she can put in down that she is using the drug store kind.

"Corruption is non-partisan," says a metropolitan newspaper. That's no lie. Look at the bunch of Pittsburg grafters who have confessed.

The trouble with reformers is that they never get started until they are in worse need of reforming than the persons they are trying to reform.

Any list of Senators would look like a city directory to me—D. P. Kingsley. They would look more like the dyspepsia personified.

Practical men are hard to find, but the man who thinks he is practical is a common affair.

A man said Brownsville was no town—it was a disease. Considering that James G. Blaine was born across the river from there, Phil Knox was born in the town, and that it is a century old, the people of that place would doubtless consider themselves entitled to call that fellow a liar.

THE WINTER OF OUR DISCONTENT

This is the winter of our discontent, made hideous by the price of pork, and all good things are "out of sight" that we must eat with knife and fork. Good produce, too, is soaring high, and we are seeking for the reason, why we must look, and pay, so highly, for eggs at this specific season. They tell us in cold storage buildings, built of concrete brick, and steel, is store, the products of the nation,—poor fools get a "frozen deal;" but there is one consolation, there must come improvements soon, and besides there is Chi-Namel—to every home this is a boon. ## MASSAGE HINTS

How to Secure the Best Results From This Most Difficult Art.

For every woman who understands the true principles of massage—its underlying secrets of proper manipulation—there are fifty who, less informed, either do their complexions little good or else actual harm. This is because the delicate skin tissue of the face, neck and shoulders may be easily ruined through the unscientific rubbing or seemingly good effects may be secured by means that speedily react, leaving the skin in a worse condition than before the amateur massaging was undertaken.

Every woman who values her complexion should use Crown Cream for this work because it is not only the best massage cream known, but it has marked beneficial qualities itself. Its best effects can be secured, however, when used in connection with the Harlan Beauty Cup, which is an ingenious device for the securing of perfect massage by a mild vacuum process. The combination never fails because in addition to the refreshing, cleansing and healing action of the Crown Cream, the Beauty Cup, acts directly upon the pores, pumping out their impurities, and also upon the cellular tissue and minute neat work of blood vessels immediately beneath the skin. It quickly rounds out the cheeks, arms and neck by bringing fresh, healthful blood to the wasted places

Crown Cream retails everywhere at 50c a jar, which is also the price of the Beauty Cup. They may be had from all dealers, or will be sent prepaid by the Harlan Mfg. Co., Toledo, O., on receipt of price.

A GOLDEN AIR CASTLE

By HAROLD OTIS

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association]

About the middle of the last century two men, Edward Coyne and John Warner, prospected for gold in Colorado. Coyne was a visionary fellow who had left his sweetheart in the east and gone to Colorado with his head full of golden air castles, promising to return later with a fortune and celebrate their wedding. Warner was older, married to a shrew and as anxious to keep away from his wife as Coyne was to go back to his betrothed.

The partners sank a number of holes in different places without finding anything worth mentioning. Coyne had had a little money at the start, but it had all been spent. Then one evening he told Warner that he should make an effort to raise funds for the further prosecution of their work. The matter led to a quarrel, which was heard by prospectors in the neighborhood. Nevertheless the partners continued to work together for another month, at the end of which Warner disappeared. When questioned as to his partner's whereabouts Coyne said that he had gone without notice.

It was about this time that horse stealing and other crimes became so unbearable in the region that a vigilance committee was organized to hunt down and rid the people of the criminals. Having been created for a purpose, the committee entered upon that purpose with a zeal common to newly organized bodies. No crime being immediately reported, they busied themselves at looking for crime. The prospectors who had heard the angry words between Coyne and Warner reported the fact to a member of the committee and that Warner had disappeared.

One day when Coyne was sitting on a stone near a hole he had been digging, his elbows resting on his knees and his head on his hands, the air castles he had built tumbling about him, the committee approached him and accused him of having murdered his partner. Coyne protested his innocence, but as he could give no account of Warner's whereabouts it looked very plain to the committee, whose members were especially bent upon making an example of some one, that Coyne was a murderer. A rope was procured, one end of which was put about the young man's neck, the other thrown over a branch of a tree, which was bent down and held by two of the committee.

"Confess!" thundered the leader.

"I have nothing to confess," replied Coyne.

At a signal the men holding the branch let go, and it flew up, carrying Coyne with it. But it was pulled down again, and Coyne, after being revived, was given another opportunity to confess. It seemed to him that his only chance was to do so. He might thus gain time, and time might save him. He therefore told the committee that if they would guarantee him a fair trial in a court of law he would confess. After a conference they decided to accept his proposition and, removing the rope from his neck, took him to the nearest jail.

It was now evident to Coyne that there was but one chance for his life—to find Warner. While awaiting trial he wrote to newspapers in Denver and Colorado Springs informing the editors of the situation, begging them to insert notices which he hoped would come to Warner's attention. The editors inserted the letters received.

Meanwhile Coyne was tried and convicted on his own confession. The newspaper notice had been widely copied by eastern papers as an item of interest, but of this the condemned man was ignorant. He was preparing himself for death and was engaged in writing an account of his situation to his betrothed, whom he had thus far kept in ignorance of it, when the door of his cell was opened and in walked his ex-partner. Coyne fainted.

While at work at the diggings Warner had received word that his wife had learned his whereabouts and was coming to join him. He at once resolved to leave without communicating to any one his intention, his reason or where he was going. Thinking that if his wife came west he had best go east, he did so and there saw the notice of the trouble he had brought upon Coyne.

Coyne upon his release was filled with a desire for revenge upon those who had so nearly sacrificed him. The committee had been made up of the most prominent men of the section. All had means, and one was a millionaire mine owner. Coyne at once brought suit against them individually for damages, but the case was never tried. Sensible of the wrong they had done and desirous to hush the matter up, the committee made up a purse amounting to the claim, $50,000.

When the money had been paid him Edward Coyne started east. He had not written a word to his betrothed since he had been jerked in the air by the committee, and four months had since then elapsed. She lived in a small country town, and no notice of his condition had reached her. When she saw him standing before her, wan, but otherwise prosperous looking, she threw her arms about him. Then she said:

"It looks, Ned, as if your air castles had turned to gold."

"One of 'em did."

"Which one?"

"The one I went into on the end of a rope."

There was an explanation (the story listened to with a wildly beating heart by the girl), at the end of which the young man produced a certified check for sufficient funds to warrant a wedding.

Announcement.

To the Voters of the Forty-Sixth Senatorial District:

I take the occasion of announcing myself as a candidate for Senator in the General Assembly subject to the decision of the Republican voters of the Forty-Sixth district composed of Washintgon and Greene counties, at the primaries to be held June 4, 1910.

My political record, from the time I was first elected to the borough council of Washington 20 years ago, until the present time, is an open book for the people of Washintgon and Greene counties to read. If they approve my course, then I shall hope that they will stand loyally by me. I shall make no unseemly scramble for this high office. I shall abuse no one and I hope no friend of mine will say aught that would wound any man who is opposed to me. I am willing to submit my candidacy upon the record I have made, and feel that I have nothing to fear from the Republicans of Washington and Greene counties.

Leaving my cause in your hands, I am, Yours very repsectively.

JOHN W HALLAM.

AFTER SUFFERING FOR YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Park Rapids, Minn.—"I was sick for years while passing through the Change of Life and was hardly able to be around. After taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I gained 20 pounds, am now able to do my own work and feel well."—Mrs. ED. LA DOU, Park Rapids, Minn.

Brookville, Ohio.—"I was irregular and extremely nervous. A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I have become regular and my nerves are much better."—Mrs. R. KINNISON, Brookville, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

Indian Hair

Always Youthful in Appearance.

It is said that nobody ever saw a gray-haired Indian. No matter how old an Indian may be, his hair is always black and lustrous. This is because the Indian's outdoor life and active habits keep the roots of his hair well supplied with natural nourishment, necessary to the life and lustrous beauty of the hair. Gray hair is simply an indication of lack of nourishment at the roots. The moment this nourishment is supplied where it is needed it is quickly absorbed by the hair and in this way prevents, indefinitely, the hair turning gray. One of the most potent remedies for gray hair is known as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. Almost all druggists carry it in stock or can procure it. It is very effective in restoring gray hair to its natural color, being exceptionally rich in vitalizing hair nourishment. Not a dye, a hair food. Philo Hay Specialties Co., Newark, N. J., U. S. A.

JOHN W. HALLAM IS CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR

Prominent Washington Contractor Will Contest for the Republican Nomination

STRONG IN PARTY CIRCLES

John W. Hallam was born on February 24, 1859, in Washington and his ancestors run back into pre-revolutionary times. He is a son of the late Lewis Hallam, a pioneer blacksmith of Washington, who during the "pike days" of the old National road operated teams between Baltimore and the Ohio river. At the age of ten years he secured employment as a clothing store clerk His thrift and business talent soon told and at the age of only 15 years he was sole proprietor of a grocery business. Three years later he sold out and traveled south and west spending a year from home.

To begin with, Mr. Hallam inherited principles of honesty and thrift, and an inherent love for work. Being deprived of means, he educated himself and through experience he gained the mastery of himself. He had no patronizing friends, but through his intellect and character he has made a success of life.

Losing the spirit of warderlust he returned home from his travels better fitted for active business. At the age of 21 years he began taking upon himself the responsibilty of accepting contracts for various improvements in and about Washington. A shrewd business man, he foresaw the future of Washington. He organized in 1887 the contracting firm of R. T. Hallam and Sons. His ability and straightforward business dealings brought success to this enterprise. Mr. Hallam is a keen student of labor and industrial affairs. He maintains that th elaborer is worthy of his hire and his advocacy of a square deal has made for him a host of friends in labor circles. His popularity gained through his associations in doing public work is only second to his commercial success. He has made the golden rule his standard of conduct. This is not a common index of character in these days of commercialism. He directed his business intelligently, had faith in his own judgment, but always maintained a modesty and sincerity, which gave him a reputation for honesty among all classes.

The field of operations expanding Mr. Hallam again foresaw the necessity of greater things and accordingly in 1903 the Hallam Construction company was incorporated. It succeeded the firm of R. T. Hallam and Sons. Pioneers in construction work this concern has grown until today it is one of the leading contracting concerns in Western Pennsylvania. Its increasing business is due in a great measure to the untiring zeal and business judgment of Mr. Hallam who has been its efficient president since its inception. His executive and administrative abilities are well known. As a business man he ranks high.

It was early in life that Mr. Hallam evinced a desire to launch into politics. In 1881, at the age of 22 years he was elected a member of the Washington borough council from the Third ward. He served two terms and was active in the interests of his constituency. He has served as a member of the local borough school board and was always regarded as a useful representative there. He was an advocate of progress. He gave liberally of his time to the public good. In 1894 he was a delegate from Washington county to the Republican State convention. In 1897 he was a member of the Pennsylvania State committee and advisor in the campaign waged in the State that year.

It was in 1896 that he showed his ability as a good fighter. This year he made a memorable campaign and was overwhelmingly nominated and elected county treasurer in the face of many odds. With four other candidates in the field he went direct to the people with his cause and won a signal victory, having a popular vote of 3,600. He swept the Monongahela river valley losing but two districts. The vote of this campaign attested to his great poularity at large in the county. Always independent he scorns cliques and factions and for years he waged the fight for the common people with success. He is a typical, aggressive and progressive citizen and one who represents the new thought and conscience of the people in political things. For more than 20 years he was chairman of the Republican vigilance committee in the Third ward and he has always been found fighting the battles of Republicanism. He is of a family of Republicans that have striven to maintain the principles of Republicanism since the birth of the party in 1852.

Always a public spirited citizen and philanthropically inclined, he has been active for good in the community and district at large. As a director in the Chamber of Commerce he was of material assistance in securing for Washington many industries and improvements. He takes a civic pride in matters material to the advancement of the county at large. He is a director and vice president of the Union Trust company of Washington.

This man who aspires to represent the people of the Forty-sixth Senatorial district in our State law-making body is full of years and ripe in everyday common practical busipess qualifications which would make him an ideal legislator. Schooled in state craft from boyhood up, he would represent the people of Washington and Greene counties splendidly. He is a strong man politically, morally and mentally. He is earnest, unpretentious and serious. There are firmly grounded principles in the man behind his everyday life which appeal to the voters.

Mr. Hallam is one of the representative Republicans of Western Pennsylvania and he is held in high respecting the councils of his party. His candidacy will inpsire those who hope for representative government. He is one of the people and he carries his cause and appeal to them. His strength is with the masses and to them he presents his candidacy. A student of political economy, he will make a valuable lawmaker for the people. His judgment in matters political is sought after and his high efficiency for legislative duty is generally conceded. His friends in both counties predict that he will be the next Senator from this district.

Gretna Green.

Gretna Green is a parish in Scotland, just "over the border," where marriages used to be performed according to the law of Scotland. The ceremony was binding performed by a layman in the simplest form, when, being registered, the parties, in the presence of witnesses, were declared man and wife The first person who officiated at these strange unions was George Scott, who began "his unlicensed ministry" about the year 1756.

AN INDIAN MURDERER.

His Fearful Punishment by a Primitive Mexican Tribe.

Speaking of primitive law among the Mexican Indians brings to mind a curious case that was told me some years ago in the state of Oaxaca by an old Zapoteca chief who had become a convert to Christianity.

He said that a long while ago an American botanist was traveling through the mountains of Oaxaca studying the rare and beautiful flora of that region. He had with him a mozo from another part of the country.

He carried several gold pieces sewed in the lining of his jacket. The mozo became aware of that fact, and one day when the botanist got down on his knees to drink at a little spring the mozo cut his head off with a machete, took the gold pieces and fled to the higher sierras.

Not long after the body was found by some Zapoteca Indians who had seen the botanist in former days studying the flowers and plants near their village. They knew that he was a harmless and good man because he loved flowers. All Mexican Indians love flowers. So they took the body to the chief and told him what they had seen and found. "What!" he said. "Shall the kind stranger with the white face who loved flowers and sought not our goods nor insulted our women come to such a dog's death among us and not be avenged?"

He then dispatched four swift Indian runners in different directions with orders not to return without the murderer. After a week's time they returned bearing the malefactor bound in their midst. A council of old men was called, and the case was examined. The guilt of the mozo was proved, as he still had with him the strange pieces of gold.

Then the old chief gave the sentence. It was speedily performed. They led the trembling murderer to the center of the little plaza. There four green stakes were driven in the ground. The murderer was stripped naked and stretched by the wrists and feet in the air among the four stakes, to which he was lashed. Then the Indians made a great heap of unslaked lime under the wretched man's body, and when the heap touched his breast and sides they poured water over it until the scalding steam of the burning lime had cooked all the flesh from the bones. Then they took the bones and threw them into a hole on the mountain side.

And so was the stain of the murdered man's blood covered and vengeance was wrought by the Indians in behalf of "the white stranger who was good and loved flowers."—Mexican Exchange.

FEVER SIGNS NOT APPARENT

Pennsylvania Free From the Usual Spring-time Ailment of Political Disturbers

NO ROOM FOR THE AGITATORS

Democratic Organization Leaders Declare They Will Have Nothing to Do With Future Fusion Movements. Experience Has Imbittered Them.

It is just as true today, no doubt, as ever it was that "in the Spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," yet it is just as true but wholly without the poetical jingle that in the spring of State contests the thoughts of some young men as well as of older ones turn viciously and vigorously to an assault upon the political conditions whatever they may be. Both are probably the result of atmospheric conditions. Neither is sufficiently serious to become a permanent ailment. One makes the personal world more tolerable. The other makes the political world more agreeable and both have their uses as distinctly as do the electrical disturbances in mid-summer. Instance the recent upheaval in the American congress at Washington. Some young men and some old from one or two sections of this great country, apparently feeling that they had a quarrel, just or unjust with the conditions there and spurred on by the Spring-time fever, combined without regard to party lines in an attack upon the conditions which they regarded as offensive. Certainly they did not consider their party or the national administration. They were concerned only for themselves and their ambitions to succeed themselves in office. They went so far in their quarrel as to demonstrate the great American principle that a majority should and could rule, and there they stopped. Apparently the fever from which they had been burning had abated. They reconstructed the committee on rules in the lower house of congress and provided that Speaker Cannon, who had been to some extent a thorn in their sides, should not be a member of that committee. That particular rule had stood all manner of tests for nearly 60 years. The alleged offensive rule had been laid down and respected before many of the congressmen of the present day had been born, but of course that was not sufficient. The Spring-time fever was on and something was forced to feed it. The speaker, the accepted leader of the regular majority party, was fed to the fever's flames and then the victims of the very mild political ailment returned to their political sanity and a new rules committee was constructed along the strict lines of the regular Republican organization. The Democratic congressmen, involved before the fact, were pleased beyond all bounds with the upheaval and its prospects of Republican disorganization. The insurgent Republicans who had joined with the Democrats in the distinctly political disorder were apparently content with their rebuke of their speaker and then with one single exception they returned to the regular Republican fold and stood for their speaker whom they believed they had humiliated. The regular Republican congressmen who had seen the fever attack their colleagues and had seen the mild ailment subside welcomed their truants to the shelter of their big tent and were delighted with the fact that no serious damage had resulted from the short season of mild indisposition. After all both branches of the American congress are in control of the regular Republicans. The recent upheaval proved to be only a Spring-time disorder. The vigorous constitution of the regular Republican organization withstood the attack.

It is gratifying to realize that there are no signs of this fever in the political affairs of Pennsylvania. There are now, just as there always have been, a few distributors of the fever germ. They are generous fellows in the way of giving out political poison, but their germs are impotent so far as may be seen with the naked eye. An industrious effort has been made by the distributors to plant the breeding germ in the ranks of labor in the State, but in the face of the real conditions that soil does not promise to be fertile. The men most concerned for the well being of the wage earners of Pennsylvania realize sincerely that labor's complaint is not political. In fact those most concerned for labor realize that the effort now making to sow discontent among the wage earners is little if any short of criminal. It should be recalled that these same fellows had no remedy to offer when, but a few months ago, the industries of the State were idle. When business was stagnant and labor was not employed these self same fellows kept under cover. It was at that time that the regular Republican organization of Pennsylvania manifested loyal devotion not only to the business world but to the wage earners in particular. It was then that United States Senator Boies Penrose demonstrated his interest and concern in his constituency by leading the way in the revision of the American tariff which promptly restored confidence to the entire country, started the wheels of industry in every section, put armies of idle men to work at satisfactory wages and lifted the industrial gloom that was threatening the very fabric of business prog.... That was the hardest test to which a senator from Pennsylvania had ever been put. It was the fiercest fight Senator Penrose had ever made. However, it was a successful fight, not so much for Senator Penrose as for the wage earners of this State, and naturally a very small harvest of political discontent is to be gathered from that particular battle field. To those who are distributing the germ of political unrest among the wage earners of Pennsylvania there must be mighty little comfort in the many announcements being made of increased wages in shops, factories and railroads, the very latest of which is the wage increase announced by the great Lehigh Valley railroad in which a vast army of employes will share.

Another political development which must be more or less discouraging to the disturbers is that announcement made officially after a recent conference of the Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania. The conference, it has been stated, was held in New York and followed a conference of national scope. State Chairman Arthur G. Dewalt, of Lehigh county, Colonel J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, the Democratic leaders of Philadelphia and Democratic leaders from other sections of the State were present. They were invited to join in another fusion movement in Pennsylvania, and as a rebuke to those who had blazed the way for them in former fusion movements they declared openly and without reservation that they would have no more fusion. They protested against the custom of turning over their party organization for the use of discontents who in season and out protest that they do not have political alliances and are known at all times to be out for selfish purposes and for personal advancement. It is clearly apparent that the Democratic organization is no longer to be at the service of political experimenters. There are in fact convincing evidences that the fever of unrest is not likely to find a breeding place in the Democratic organization of good old Pennsylvania.

A SOUTH SEA ROMANCE.

The Mutiny Long Ago on the Bounty, a British Man-of-war.

Who has not heard of the mutiny of the Bounty? The romance of it still lingers from one end of the Pacific to the other. The descendants of the mutineers of the British man-of-war and their dusky wives are living and bear English names made famous, or infamous, more than a century ago.

The British man-of-war had gone to Tahiti. The commander, Blythe, was harsh and cruel to his men. The women of Tahiti loved the fair skinned sailors and sought to hide them from Blythe, their oppressor, but they were captured, and the ship sailed away, but only to return. When it returned, in command was Fletcher Christian, midshipman, and a score of mutineers. The brute Blythe and his loyal companions had been set adrift in an open boat. Marvelous to relate, after traversing thousands of miles of open ocean they reached the Australian coast. Here they found a haven of refuge at a British outpost. For twenty years all trace of Fletcher Christian and his companions was lost, although searching expedition after expedition was sent to Tahiti by the British government.

Each of the mutineers save the remorseful Fletcher Christian took unto himself a wife. As it meant death to their husbands to live in Tahiti they helped the men they loved to man the boat that bore them away to seek some desert island. After sailing for many days in the extreme southern tripical sea the rock of Pitcairn arose before them.

Twenty years later a British merchantman sighted by chance the lone rock in the southern Pacific and sent a boat ashore. To the astonishment of the crew, dusky men and women ran down to the beach to welcome them in their own tongue and claimed to be "English." Only one old man among them, Adams, of pure British blood still survived. He was found, Bible in hand, teaching in the little Sunday school which he had built and where he had educated the children of the colony and taught them the tenets of the Christian faith.

When the news reached England a British man-of-war was sent for the last of the mutineers of the Bounty. Aboard was a king's pardon for Adams, so that, after all, he died a British subject, surrounded by his dusky children and grandchildren. The colony was then removed from the faraway southern isle to Tahiti, but homesickness overcame its members and they returned to the verdan rock.—New Idea Magazine.

INSECT STINGS.

Dangerous Always and Especially When One Is Run Down.

Stings and bites of insects are extremely dangerous at all times and especially when the system is not in a condition to resist the poison injected.

In many insects the nature of the poison has not been ascertained, while in most of them it is of an acid, irritant nature, in others it may contain a powerful cardiac sedative and depressant, and in still others organisms in pure or mixed cultures may be introduced with the sting or bite. Apart from the natural poison used by insects it should not be forgotten that flies and other insects that live on carrion may easily carry contagion and inoculate the persons whom they bite or sting.

In the case of ordinary bites and stings the chemical antidote is an alkaline solution, such as a strong solution of bicarbonate of soda or potash, which counteracts the acid of the sting. Suction at the wound in all these varieties of stings and bites will draw out some of the poison and until some antitoxin treatment can be found which will prove an antidote to the bacterial poison introduced little can be done beyond a stimulating and supporting treatment with attention to symptoms.—Health.

The new bill at the Coyle Theatre last night was a decided improvement over the one the first half of the week, and Crawford and Meeker easily carried off first honors with their bright comedy and funny parodies.

De Angelo delighted the audience with his artistic rendition of classical and popular songs. That clever acrobatic duo, Ramzett and Lyman were very much appreciated as were Gardner and Fay in their singing and dancing specialty. Julia Edwards is one of the best "single's" that has been here for some time and her impersonation of a tough girl was very ludicious.

PARADE OPENS CHARLEROI'S ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION SHORTLY BEFORE NOON

Charleroi's big Anniversary celebration is proving all that was anticipated today, and the thousands of people that are here from nearby places are being entertained royally. The affair is one of the largest ever held in Charleroi of a similar kind.

The only event of the morning was the parade. In this the borough officials, citizens, and some visiting delegations participated.

The parade was led by the police on horseback. Following them were about 30 automobiles, in which rode the members of the borough council, Charleroi citizens, and a number of noted visitors. Near the lead was the John A. Wood band, and in the line was the Naomi band. Bringing up the rear after a number of ponies ridden by their boy owners, was the Marianna drum corps.

The parade was viewed by thousands of persons scattered along the streets. The line was on McKean avenue, Fallowfield and Washington.

This afternoon the principal event is the automobile hill climbing contest. There are a number of autos out, many being brought from other towns, and some inspiring races are expected.

The ball game, firemen's drill, bicycle and foot races are other afternoon events. The leading events of the evening is the competitive drill between the Charleroi Boys Brigade and the Monessen and Monongahela Cadets.

INSTITUTE WILL BE HELD BY THE ROSCOE SCHOOLS

A teachers' intstiute will be held by the Roscoe teachers at the Roscoe Presbyterian church on Saturday night. It is planned to have several good speakers present, among which may be Prof. L. R. Crumrine, county superintendent. The purpose of the institute is to give the education movement an impetus in Roscoe and vicinity.

The program will be a general one of educational, literary and musical features. The institute will be public, and indications are that there will be a good attendance.

Among the speakers will be Dr. H. B. Davis, principal of the California school, Rev. Theodore Hunter, Prof. Polock, and Prof. O. O. Saylor, the latter of Brownville. Besides these there will be others on the program.

There will be special music furnished for the occasion of instrumental and vocal selections. The Charleroi Ladies Double Quartet, composed of Misses Elsie Crill, Florence Crill, Rosetta and Patti Rodgers, May Barth, Mary Walters, Price Frye, and Mrs. A H. Bosson has been engaged, and will render one or more selections.

SURVIVOR OF CHERRY DISASTER LECTURES AT PALACE THEATER

Large crowds attended the three shows at the Palace Theatre last night where in addition to the regular program appered Q. Antenore, one of the 20 miners who were taken out alive of the ill-fated Cherry mine in Illinois after being entombed for eight days. After a number of stereopticon pictures were shown of scenes of the mine before and after the explosion, Antenore appeared on the stage with his miner's lamp on his cap and wearing the clothes he had on at the time. He told the story of his thrilling experience of being buried alive for eight days and the miraculous escape of his 19 companions. An account of the disaster containing Antenore's portrait appears in the March number of McClure's magazine.

So well did the lectures take that Manager R. L. Barnhart arranged for Antenore to remain over tonight and repeat his appearances. The moving pictures are changed tonight.

MINERS CELEBRATE EIGHT HOUR DAY IN UP RIVER TOWNS

At Roscoe and Brownsville today the miners are celebrating the eight-hour day anniversary. At Roscoe there was a parade in the morning and this afternoon there are field games being held. At Brownsville there is a general miner's demonstration. At the latter place President Francis Feehan of this ditsrict is one of the speakers. At Roscoe A. H. Anderson, candidate for the Republican nomination for State senator, will be one of the peakers.

WILL COST $1.00 EACH

Guarantors Will be Called Upon to Make up Deficit.

At a meeting of a number of the guarantors of the Citizen's Entertainment course at the borough building last night, arrangements were made for the paying of the deficit of $38.00 which exists on the course which was just lately finished. There were 40 guarantors on the past course, and the sum of $1.00 will be asked from each one, owing to incidentals and the fact that one or two have removed from this vicinity. Fred Clerihue and Prof. James R. Huston were appointed a committee to see the guarantors, and to secure a list of not less than 40 people for the coming year, to act as guarantors.

After a list of the names of the coming year are secured, a meeting will be called for the election of an executive committee, to have charge of securing a course for the coming year. It was generally thought that last year's course was a good one. The committee which had charge was composed of Rev. G. G. Kerr, president; Fred Clerihue, secretary; S. K. Scott, treasurer; R. Dale Jolliffe, Dr. J. W. Manon and Prof. James R. Huston.

GEORGE COLLINS PREFERS CASH TO AUTO WON IN POPULARITY CONTEST

George Collins, the winner of the Reo Automobile, the first grand prize in the Mail-Mirror Popularity Subscription Contest by the Mail Publishnig company, which closed last Saturday after a nine weeks' campaign has accepted a cash consideration instead of the machine. Mr. Collins' letter requesting this is as follows:

Rocsoe, Pa., March 29, 1910.

Mail Publishing Company,
Charleroi, Pa.

Gentlemen—Have received your notice that I am the winner of the First Grand Prize in your big contest, and cannot find words to express my gratitude to the many friends who supported me. The good feeling that was shown by Saturday night's demonstration in Chraleroi when the result was made known means much more to me than the prize itself, although I fully appreciate the value of what you are giving to me. Owing to the cost of maintaining an automobile, and for other reasons, can you not give me the equivalent in cash, as I would have to take steps at once to dispose of the machine to meet my requirements.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Geroge Collins.

As this was immaterial to the Mail Publishing company, an offer was made which was immediately accepted. Accordingly a check was mailed Mr. Collins, which was gratefully acknowledged, and both he and his many friends are well satisfied with the result of the contest.

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT

Miners and Operators Sanguine of Definite Results Within Few Days

In connection with the Anniversary celebration in Charleroi today, which is also the anniversary of the coal miners' eight-hour day, is a most sanguine feeling among the miners that the wage scale controversy will reach a speedy settlement. With the old wage scale being ineffective tomorrow and no new one yet signed, thus compelling a temporay suspension of operations, Pittsburg operators will meet formally in the office of the Pittsburg Coal company tomorrow afternoon in Pittsburg to discuss the wage question.

Miners and operators agree that no work will be resumed after the holiday today, on either Saturday or Sunday. The probability of Monday brings a difference of opinion.

Pittsburg operators are practically a unit upon being willing to meet the 5-cent increase and the powder question seems to be ready for solution. Some of the operators hang back declaring that the introduction of new explosives would mean that they would eventually be forced to grant another increase to meet the additional expense.

Word has been received from President Lewis that he will be in Pittsburg next week. He is apparently sanguine that the cessation of operations will be of short duration.

MONESSEN PIANIST COMPOSES CLASSIC

Charleroi people will be interested in the success of Miss Nelle McMahan of Monessen who has just finished a musical composition that bids fair to give her an enviable recognition and to the musical world a classical work of more than passing merit. Miss McMahan has secured a copyright for her composition now, and it is in the hands of the publishers. It will be issued at an early date by the Oliver Ditson company of New York.

Miss McMahon dedicated the piece to Sister Regis of St. Xaviers college, near Latrobe, under whose instruction she graduated with high honors several years ago. It is written in waltz time and is named "Der Ger sang des Nachtwindes," ("The Song of the Night Wind.") It is classical and has been highly commended by a number of authorities who have heard it.

Miss McMahan is known to a number of Charleroi people both as a pianist and in a social way. She is a niece of Thomas L. Daly, the well known banker, residing at North Charleroi, and has given considerable time to musical accomplishments with flattering success. As a teacher she is quite successful and has taken a number of awards at recitals following graduation from St. Xavier's.

It is not often that a composer is accorded the ready welcome Miss McMahan has received from the publishers and her friends believe that she has achieved something beyond the ordinary in composition.

INVITES ANY CITIZEN OF CHARLEROI TO CALL AT LOS ANGELES HOME

"Just tell everybody for me that I will be more than glad to see them at my new Los Angeles home, after I am settled," said Joseph Kenyon yesterday, when he stopped in the Mail office to leave an add. Mr. Kenyon is preparing to remove to Los Angeles, California, in the near future. He is one of Charleroi's best known men, having been connected with the town for about 12 years. He has been superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school more than three years and was district superintendent of the Charleroi district, Washington County Sabbath School Association last year. The invitation which he so generously extends to the public in general is well meant and extended, as he puts it, to all.

BUILDING OPERATIONS BOOMING IN CHARLEROI AND NEARBY VICINIT

S. K. Scott, the local building contractor, says that building operations are booming at the present time in Charleroi and vicinity. In Charleroi there is a noticeable increase in the number of buildings of various natures being put up, and in nearby towns and community it is said to be the same.

Mr. Scott stated last night that he is being kept busy nowadays and has so much to do that he fears he will have to give up at least one of his large contracts, the Ellsworth Presbyteran church. There are two buildings here now on which he is employed at the present time, both on McKean avenue, one for Patrick Connelly, between Seventh and Eig streets, an eight-room dwelling, the other between Fifth and S street, opposite the Hotel Arth This is to be a brick structure o store room and two flats, contain in all about 10 rooms. It is b erected by J. T. Antrom, of Hest burg, and will cost in the neigh hood of $5,000. The excavating w has not yet been completed.

The Ellsworth Presbyterian chu for which Mr. Scott has the contr will cost in the neighborhood $10,000 when finished. The heat and decorating is reserved. Scott's contract price is $6,000.

LITTLE BOY SAYS "GET UP," AND STARTS RUNAWAY

When a small boy, unable to resist the impulse to hasten April Fool day a trifle, said "Get Up," to the team of T. P. Grant's yesterday he nearly caused a dire catastrophe. The horses obeyed and rejoicing in their freedom started on a run up the street, before being stopped dashing into a carriage of S. K. Leonard, in front of his livery barn, and smashing it somewhat.

The affair happened at about 3 o'clock. The team was quietly standing in front of Mr. Grant's hardware store on Fallowfield avenue, when the small boy happened along. He was only about 6 or 7 years old, but imbued with a spirit of practical jokes, casually glanced over the situation, then said "Get Up." That was all that was necessary and in a moment there was a wild runaway.

The horses continued on a straight course up Fallowfield and ran plunk into the carriage in front of the barn. It was overturned and the horses fell. Neither of the animals were injured, and did not seem frightened but the carriage was broken. A lamp was torn off, an axel was bent, and the exterior was scratched, besides other damages.

SIGNS OF ICE CREAM COMPANY BEING TORN DOWN IN THE BOROUGH

The tasty arrangements of the Hermes Ice Cream signs, which have been posted in front of various stores in Charleroi, as an advertisement of the Hermes Ice Cream, for which a branch has been opened in North Charleroi, has been the occasion for a display of hoodlumism in Charleroi the past few days. Many of the signs have been torn down as soon, almost, as put up, and a reward has been offered for anyone furnishing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the parties guilty of the crimes.

Have Moved Store

The McDermott Creamery Products firm yesterday moved their store from the Fleming building, on Fallowfield avenue, to the First street store recently occupied by the F. W. Woolworth and company's 5 and 10-cent store.

PRETTY ROMANCE TO CULMINATE IN CHURCH WEDDIN

A pretty romance, which origina in a prayer meeting of the gr Welsh revival three years ago, w culminate in a church wedding at First Baptist church here one next week, when Rev. Clifford Se Josbua, the pastor of the church, a Miss Margaret May James, lately Senghenydd, Wales, will be marri The ceremony will be performed Rev. H. C. Gleiss, correspondi secretary of the Pittsburg Bapt Association, through whose offi Rev. Joshua located in Charler Miss James is at present on her w to America to join her fiancee, and is expected will arrive in New Yo on Saturday. She will spend a d or so there before coming on to Ch leroi for the wedding.

The invited guests to the weddi will constitute the members of t church and the congregation, and reception will be tendered the popul pastor and his bride immediate afterwards.

Miss James is a noted elocutioni of Wales, and last June at a nation eistedfodd held in Royal Albert Hal London, took second prize for superi elocutionary work. This is one the national events patronized by Ki Edward, and at this particular af his presence was felt. In Wale some of the semi-national eistef she has taken first prize and exceptional talent has to show medals, gifts from noted peo is the daughter of the late James, and very well con Rev. Joshua is the son of Rev. Joshua, and besides belonging long generation of a family of m ters, has for his uncle, Rev. Jo Joshua, the national Welsh evangelis

It was in Miss James' home tow that the couple met. Evan Robert whose wonderful conversion was th signal for the starting of the gre Welsh revival which extended for period of three years, was in charg of a prayer meeting at a church i Senghenydd, and Rev. Joshua wa there, if need be to assist. Mis James attended, and fate led th couple together. From that tim forth their destinies have mingled, t culminate if everything turns out a expected, in the wedding next week

A Perilous Occupation.

Those who heard the thrilling narrative of Q. Antenore, who appeared at the Palace Theatre last night, and who is there again tonight, will realize most vividly the perils that accompany the hazardous occupation of coal mining. Antenore is one of the survivors of the terrible Cherry mine disaster, in Illinois, and was rescued with nineteen others after an entombment of eight days in the burning shaft of the ill-fated mine. Clad in the clothes he wore at the time, with his miner's lamp on his cap, his simple but graphic story in broken English is most thrilling.

When it is realized that precautions ...fety that advanced mine engi... have demonstrated to be essen... In some instances entirely ...e wonder is that men can ... to risk their lives in the ...g. The method seems to ...n to trust entirely to provi... and to take the risk. ...ore disasters have not oc... have been due mostly to good ...uck than good management. It was perhaps the simplicity of methods used and the experience and watchfulness of the men employed that is responsible for the safety of the operatives. Now, with methods more complicated and extensive, and with less experienced labor in many instances, the danger is doubly enhanced. This means the enforced installation of more safety appliances, and inevitably an increased cost in coal mining. Economy that is dangerous can no longer be employed.

A Pattern Maker.

Charleroi is in gala attire today, celebrating the twentieth anniversay of the founding of the town. The streets are thronged with visitors and holiday seekers, and at this writing everything augurs well for a successful termination of the entertainment program.

It is not necessary to dwell upon the causes and means that have made Charleroi great. The answer to this is obvious in the efforts that are being put forth today to make this celebration a success. It is the united efforts of the citizens of Charleroi that is making the town the best trade center and the most progressive community of the valley. What the people are doing today is what they have done from the beginning. Whenever anything was necessary for the advancement or the glorification of Charleroi the people were alive to the occasion. They measured up to the requirements, and united hustling did the rest. Strangers who would like to know the secret of Charleroi's progressiveness are invited to look around and meet the people. The workings of the process will then be revealed.

Great is the Toad.

A pamphlet recently issued by Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture pays a glowing tribute to the toad, says a writer in Success Magazine. According to this high authority, few creatures of its size have suffered more from false witnesses. It is not true that it causes warts, poisons infants or spoils cows' milk. On the contrary, it has an amicable disposition, a good singing voice—for those who like that sort of thing—and above all, most commendable industry.

An able-bodied toad eats $19.44 (wholesale rates) worth of injurious worms and insects every season. It is a most efficient ultimate consumer, and it likes best those things which the farmer likes least. It is home-loving and very fond of children—its own childen. No farmer or suburbanite should try to get along without a couple of good toads.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

When Kennedy came to Donora, the Washington Observer had him overwhelmed by the enthusiasm of the people of Tener's home community. Investigations revealed a pipe dream.

We can't understand why so many people are leaving town. Will somebody please explain?

Let's ont have very much of a strike. The effects of it makes people hungry.

A way to insure a good job on a "big time circuit" in the vaudeville line is to get some new jokes, actually new ones.

How in the world is a fellow going to move forward any more in the car when the motorman won't let him?

When you hear of a woman dying for love, she can put in down that she is using the drug store kind.

"Corruption is non-partisan," says a metropolitan newspaper. That's no lie. Look at the bunch of Pittsburg grafters who have confessed.

The trouble with reformers is that they never get started until they are in worse need of reforming than the persons they are trying to reform.

Any list of Senators would look like a city directory to me—D. P. Kingsley. They would look more like the dyspepsia personified.

Practical men are hard to find, but the man who thinks he is practical is a common affair.

A man said Brownsville was no town—it was a disease. Considering that James G. Blaine was born across the river from there, Phil Knox was born in the town, and that it is a century old, the people of that place would doubtless consider themselves entitled to call that fellow a liar.

They tell us in cold storage buildings, built of concrete brick, and steel, is store, the products of the nation,—poor fools get a "frozen deal;" but there is one consolation, there must come improvements soon, and besides there is Chi-Namel—to every home this is a boon. ## DON'T BE BALD

Almost Anyone Can Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

You can easily find out for yourself if your hair needs nourishment, if it is thinning, getting dry, harsh and brittle, or splitting at the ends. You can simply have to pull a hair from the top of your head and closely examne its root. If the bulb is plump and rosy it is all right; if it is white and shrunken your hair is diseased and needs nourishment.

We have a remedy for hair troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time It will even grow hair on bald heads if the scalp is not glazed and shiny. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so sure that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will completely eradicate dandruff, prevent baldness stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in every instance where it does not do as we claim or fails to give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall '93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is perfumed with a pleasant odor, and does not grease or gum the hair. We have it in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our recommendation and with our guarantee back of it. You certainly take no risk. ## MASSAGE HINTS

For every woman who understands the true principles of massage—its underlying secrets of proper manipulation—there are fifty who, less informed, either do their complexions little good or else actual harm. This is because the delicate skin tissue of the face, neck and shoulders may be easily ruined through the unscientific rubbing or seemingly good effects may be secured by means that speedily react, leaving the skin in a worse condition than before the amateur massaging was undertaken.

Every woman who values her complexion should use Crown Cream for this work because it is not only the best massage cream known, but it has marked beneficial qualities itself. Its best effects can be secured, however, when used in connection with the Harlan Beauty Cup, which is an ingenious device for the securing of perfect massage by a mild vacuum process. The combination never fails because in addition to the refreshing, cleansing and healing action of the Crown Cream, the Beauty Cup, acts directly upon the pores, pumping out their impurities, and also upon the cellular tissue and minute neat work of blood vessels immediately beneath the skin. It quickly rounds out the cheeks, arms and neck by bringing fresh, healthful blood to the wasted places

Crown Cream retails everywhere at 50c a jar, which is also the price of the Beauty Cup. They may be had from all dealers, or will be sent prepaid by the Harlan Mfg. Co., Toledo, O., on receipt of price.

A GOLDEN AIR CASTLE

By HAROLD OTIS

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

About the middle of the last century two men, Edward Coyne and John Warner, prospected for gold in Colorado. Coyne was a visionary fellow who had left his sweetheart in the east and gone to Colorado with his head full of golden air castles, promising to return later with a fortune and celebrate their wedding. Warner was older, married to a shrew and as anxious to keep away from his wife as Coyne was to go back to his betrothed.

The partners sank a number of holes in different places without finding anything worth mentioning. Coyne had had a little money at the start, but it had all been spent. Then one evening he told Warner that he should make an effort to raise funds for the further prosecution of their work. The matter led to a quarrel, which was heard by prospectors in the neighborhood. Nevertheless the partners continued to work together for another month, at the end of which Warner disappeared. When questioned as to his partner's whereabouts Coyne said that he had gone without notice.

It was about this time that horse stealing and other crimes became so unbearable in the region that a vigilance committee was organized to hunt down and rid the people of the criminals. Having been created for a purpose, the committee entered upon that purpose with a zeal common to newly organized bodies. No crime being immediately reported, they busied themselves at looking for crime. The prospectors who had heard the angry words between Coyne and Warner reported the fact to a member of the committee and that Warner had disappeared.

One day when Coyne was sitting on a stone near a hole he had been digging, his elbows resting on his knees and his head on his hands, the air castles he had built tumbling about him, the committee approached him and accused him of having murdered his partner. Coyne protested his innocence, but as he could give no account of Warner's whereabouts it looked very plain to the committee, whose members were especially bent upon making an example of some one, that Coyne was a murderer. A rope was procured, one end of which was put about the young man's neck, the other thrown over a branch of a tree, which was bent down and held by two of the committee.

"Confess!" thundered the leader.

"I have nothing to confess," replied Coyne.

At a signal the men holding the branch let go, and it flew up, carrying Coyne with it. But it was pulled down again, and Coyne, after being revived, was given another opportunity to confess. It seemed to him that his only chance was to do so. He might thus gain time, and time might save him. He therefore told the committee that if they would guarantee him a fair trial in a court of law he would confess. After a conference they decided to accept his proposition and, removing the rope from his neck, took him to the nearest jail.

It was now evident to Coyne that there was but one chance for his life—to find Warner. While awaiting trial he wrote to newspapers in Denver and Colorado Springs informing the editors of the situation, begging them to insert notices which he hoped would come to Warner's attention. The editors inserted the letters received.

Meanwhile Coyne was tried and convicted on his own confession. The newspaper notice had been widely copied by eastern papers as an item of interest, but of this the condemned man was ignorant. He was preparing himself for death and was engaged in writing an account of his situation to his betrothed, whom he had thus far kept in ignorance of it, when the door of his cell was opened and in walked his ex-partner. Coyne fainted.

While at work at the diggings Warner had received word that his wife had learned his whereabouts and was coming to join him. He at once resolved to leave without communicating to any one his intention, his reason or where he was going. Thinking that if his wife came west he had best go east, he did so and there saw the notice of the trouble he had brought upon Coyne.

Coyne upon his release was filled with a desire for revenge upon those who had so nearly sacrificed him. The committee had been made up of the most prominent men of the section. All had means, and one was a millionaire mine owner. Coyne at once brought suit against them individually for damages, but the case was never tried. Sensible of the wrong they had done and desirous to hush the matter up, the committee made up a purse amounting to the claim, $50,000.

When the money had been paid him Edward Coyne started east. He had not written a word to his betrothed since he had been jerked in the air by the committee, and four months had since then elapsed. She lived in a small country town, and no notice of his condition had reached her. When she saw him standing before her, wan, but otherwise prosperous looking, she threw her arms about him. Then she said:

"It looks, Ned, as if your air castles had turned to gold."

"One of 'em did."

"Which one?"

"The one I went into on the end of a rope."

There was an explanation (the story listened to with a wildly beating heart by the girl), at the end of which the young man produced a certified check for sufficient funds to warrant a wedding.

Announcement.

To the Voters of the Forty-Sixth Senatorial District:

I take the occasion of announcing myself as a candidate for Senator in the General Assembly subject to the decision of the Republican voters of the Forty-Sixth district composed of Washintgon and Greene counties, at the primaries to be held June 4, 1910.

My political record, from the time I was first elected to the borough council of Washington 20 years ago, until the present time, is an open book for the people of Washintgon and Greene counties to read. If they approve my course, then I shall hope that they will stand loyally by me. I shall make no unseemly scramble for this high office. I shall abuse no one and I hope no friend of mine will say aught that would wound any man who is opposed to me. I am willing to submit my candidacy upon the record I have made, and feel that I have nothing to fear from the Republicans of Washington and Greene counties.

Leaving my cause in your hands, I am, Yours very repsectively.

JOHN .W HALLAM.

Park Rapids, Minn.—"I was sick for years while passing through the Change of Life and was hardly able to be around. After taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I gained 20 pounds, am now able to do my own work and feel well."—Mrs. ED. LA DOU, Park Rapids, Minn.

Brookville, Ohio.—"I was irregular and extremely nervous. A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I have become regular and my nerves are much better."—Mrs. R. KINNISON, Brookville, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

Indian Hair

Always Youthful in Appearance.

It is said that nobody ever saw a gray-haired Indian. No matter how old an Indian may be, his hair is always black and lustrous. This is because the Indian's outdoor life and active habits keep the roots of his hair well supplied with natural nourishment, necessary to the life and lustrous beauty of the hair. Gray hair is simply an indication of lack of nourishment at the roots. The moment this nourishment is supplied where it is needed it is quickly absorbed by the hair and in this way prevents, indefinitely, the hair turning gray. One of the most potent remedies for gray hair is known as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. Almost all druggists carry it in stock or can procure it. It is very effective in restoring gray hair to its natural color, being exceptionally rich in vitalizing hair nourishment. Not a dye, a hair food. Philo Hay Specialties Co., Newark, N. J., U. S. A.

JOHN W. HALLAM IS CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR

Prominent Washington Contractor Will Contest for the Republican Nomination

STRONG IN PARTY CIRCLES

John W. Hallam was born on February 24, 1859, in Washington and his ancestors run back into pre-revolutionary times. He is a son of the late Lewis Hallam, a pioneer blacksmith of Washington, who during the "pike days" of the old National road operated teams between Baltimore and the Ohio river. At the age of ten years he secured employment as a clothing store clerk His thrift and business talent soon told and at the age of only 15 years he was sole proprietor of a grocery business. Three years later he sold out and traveled south and west spending a year from home.

To begin with, Mr Hallam inherited principles of honesty and thrift, and an inherent love for work. Being deprived of means, he educated himself and through experience he gained the mastery of himself. He had no patronizing friends, but through his intellect and character he has made a success of life.

Losing the spirit of warderlust he returned home from his travels better fitted for active business. At the age of 21 years he began taking upon himself the responsibilty of accepting contracts for various improvements in and about Washington. A shrewd business man, he foresaw the future of Washington. He organized in 1887 the contracting firm of R. T. Hallam and Sons. His ability and straightforward business dealings brought success to this enterprise. Mr. Hallam is a keen student of labor and industrial affairs. He maintains that th elaborer is worthy of his hire and his advocacy of a square deal has made for him a host of friends in labor circles. His popularity gained through his associations in doing public work is only second to his commercial success. He has made the golden rule his standard of conduct. This is not a common index of character in these days of commercialism. He directed his business intelligently, had faith in his own judgment, but always maintained a modesty and sincerity, which gave him a reputation for honesty among all classes.

The field of operations expanding Mr. Hallam again foresaw the necessity of greater things and accordingly in 1903 the Hallam Construction company was incorporated. It succeeded the firm of R. T. Hallam and Sons. Pioneers in construction work this concern has grown until today it is one of the leading contracting concerns in Western Pennsylvania. Its increasing business is due in a great measure to the untiring zeal and business judgment of Mr. Hallam who has been its efficient president since its inception. His executive and administrative abilities are well known. As a business man he ranks high.

It was early in life that Mr. Hallam evinced a desire to launch into politics. In 1881, at the age of 22 years he was elected a member of the Washington borough council from the Third ward. He served two terms and was active in the interests of his constituency. He has served as a member of the local borough school board and was always regarded as a useful representative there. He was an advocate of progress. He gave liberally of his time to the public good. In 1894 he was a delegate from Washington county to the Republican State convention. In 1897 he was a member of the Pennsylvania State committee and advisor in the campaign waged in the State that year.

It was in 1896 that he showed his ability as a good fighter. This year he made a memorable campaign and was overwhelmingly nominated and elected county treasurer in the face of many odds. With four other candidates in the field he went direct to the people with his cause and won a signal victory, having a popular vote of 3,600. He swept the Monongahela river valley losing but two districts. The vote of this campaign attested to his great poularity at large in the county. Always independent he scorns cliques and factions and for years he waged the fight for the common people with success. He is a typical, aggressive and progressive citizen and one who represents the new thought and conscience of the people in political things. For more than 20 years he was chairman of the Republican vigilance committee in the Third ward and he has always been found fighting the battles of Republicanism He is of a family of Republicans that have striven to maintain the principles of Republicanism since the birth of the party in 1852.

Always a public spirited citizen and philanthropically inclined, he has been active for good in the community and district at large. As a director in the Chamber of Commerce he was of material assistance in securing for Washington many industries and improvements. He takes a civic pride in matters material to the advancement of the county at large. He is a director and vice president of the Union Trust company of Washington.

This man who aspires to represent the people of the Forty-sixth Senatorial district in our State law-making body is full of years and ripe in everyday common practical busipess qualifications which would make him an ideal legislator. Schooled in state craft from boyhood up, he would represent the people of Washington and Greene counties splendidly. He is a strong man politically, morally and mentally. He is earnest, unpretentious and serious. There are firmly grounded principles in the man behind his everyday life which appeal to the voters.

Mr. Hallam is one of the representative Republicans of Western Pennsylvania and he is held in high respecting the councils of his party. His candidacy will inpsire those who hope for representative government. He is one of the people and he carries his cause and appeal to them. His strength is with the masses and to them he presents his candidacy. A student of political economy, he will make a valuable lawmaker for the people. His judgment in matters political is sought after and his high efficiency for legislative duty is generally conceded. His friends in both counties predict that he will be the next Senator from this district.

Gretna Green.

Gretna Green is a parish in Scotland, just "over the border," where marriages used to be performed according to the law of Scotland. The ceremony was binding performed by a layman in the simplest form, when, being registered, the parties, in the presence of witnesses, were declared man and wife. The first person who officiated at these strange unions was George Scott, who began "his unlicensed ministry" about the year 1756.

AN INDIAN MURDERER.

Speaking of primitive law among the Mexican Indians brings to mind a curious case that was told me some years ago in the state of Oaxaca by an old Zapoteca chief who had become a convert to Christianity.

He said that a long while ago an American botanist was traveling through the mountains of Oaxaca studying the rare and beautiful flora of that region. He had with him a mozo from another part of the country.

He carried several gold pieces sewed in the lining of his jacket. The mozo became aware of that fact, and one day when the botanist got down on his knees to drink at a little spring the mozo cut his head off with a machete, took the gold pieces and fled to the higher sierras.

Not long after the body was found by some Zapoteca Indians who had seen the botanist in former days studying the flowers and plants near their village. They knew that he was a harmless and good man because he loved flowers. All Mexican Indians love flowers. So they took the body to the chief and told him what they had seen and found. "What!" he said. "Shall the kind stranger with the white face who loved flowers and sought not our goods nor insulted our women come to such a dog's death among us and not be avenged?"

He then dispatched four swift Indian runners in different directions with orders not to return without the murderer. After a week's time they returned bearing the malefactor bound in their midst. A council of old men was called, and the case was examined. The guilt of the mozo was proved, as he still had with him the strange pieces of gold.

Then the old chief gave the sentence. It was speedily performed. They led the trembling murderer to the center of the little plaza. There four green stakes were driven in the ground. The murderer was stripped naked and stretched by the wrists and feet in the air among the four stakes, to which he was lashed. Then the Indians made a great heap of unslaked lime under the wretched man's body, and when the heap touched his breast and sides they poured water over it until the scalding steam of the burning lime had cooked all the flesh from the bones. Then they took the bones and threw them into a hole on the mountain side.

And so was the stain of the murdered man's blood covered and vengeance was wrought by the Indians in behalf of "the white stranger who was good and loved flowers."—Mexican Exchange.

FEVER SIGNS NOT APPARENT

Pennsylvania Free From the Usual Spring-time Ailment of Political Disturbers

NO ROOM FOR THE AGITATORS

Democratic Organization Leaders Declare They Will Have Nothing to Do With Future Fusion Movements. Experience Has Imbittered Them.

It is just as true today, no doubt, as ever it was that "in the Spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," yet it is just as true but wholly without the poetical jingle that in the spring of State contests the thoughts of some young men as well as of older ones turn viciously and vigorously to an assault upon the political conditions whatever they may be. Both are probably the result of atmospheric conditions. A fever is sufficiently serious to become a permanent ailment. One makes the personal world more tolerable. The other makes the political world more agreeable and both have their uses as distinctly as do the electrical disturbances in mid-summer. Instance the recent upheaval in the American congress at Washington. Some young men and some old from one or two sections of this great country, apparently feeling that they had a quarrel, just or unjust, with the conditions there and spurred on by the Spring-time fever, combined without regard to party lines in an attack upon the conditions which they regarded as offensive. Certainly they did not consider their party or the national administration. They were concerned only for themselves and their ambitions to succeed themselves in office. They went so far in their quarrel as to demonstrate the great American principle that a majority should and could rule, and there they stopped. Apparently the fever from which they had been burning had abated. They reconstructed the committee on rules in the lower house of congress and provided that Speaker Cannon, who had been to some extent a thorn in their sides, should not be a member of that committee. That particular rule had stood all manner of tests for nearly 60 years. The alleged offensive rule had been laid down and respected before many of the congressmen of the present day had been born, but of course that was not sufficient. The Spring-time fever was on and something was forced to feed it. The speaker, the accepted leader of the regular majority party, was fed to the fever's flames and then the victims of the very mild political ailment returned to their political sanity and a new rules committee was constructed along the strict lines of the regular Republican organization. The Democratic congressmen, involved before the fact, were pleased beyond all bounds with the upheaval and its prospects of Republican disorganization. The insurgent Republicans who had joined with the Democrats in the distinctly political disorder were apparently content with their rebuke of their speaker and then with one single exception they returned to the regular Republican fold and stood for their speaker whom they believed they had humiliated. The regular Republican congressmen who had seen the fever attack their colleagues and had seen the mild ailment subside welcomed their truants to the shelter of their big tent and were delighted with the fact that no serious damage had resulted from the short season of mild indisposition. After all both branches of the American congress are in control of the regular Republicans. The recent upheaval proved to be only a Spring-time disorder. The vigorous constitution of the regular Republican organization withstood the attack.

It is gratifying to realize that there are no signs of this fever in the political affairs of Pennsylvania. There are now, just as there always have been, a few distributors of the fever germ. They are generous fellows in the way of giving out political poison, but their germs are impotent so far as may be seen with the naked eye. An industrious effort has been made by the distributors to plant the breeding germ in the ranks of labor in the State, but in the face of the real conditions that soil does not promise to be fertile. The men most concerned for the well being of the wage earners of Pennsylvania realize sincerely that labor's complaint is not political. In fact those most concerned for labor realize that the effort now making to sow discontent among the wage earners is little if any short of criminal. It should be recalled that these same fellows had no remedy to offer when, but a few months ago, the industries of the State were idle. When business was stagnant and labor was not employed these self same fellows kept under cover. It was at that time that the regular Republican organization of Pennsylvania manifested loyal devotion not only to the business world but to the wage earners in particular. It was then that United States Senator Boies Penrose demonstrated his interest and concern in his constituency by leading the way in the revision of the American tariff which promptly restored confidence to the entire country, started the wheels of industry in every section, put armies of idle men to work at satisfactory wages and lifted the industrial gloom that was threatening the very fabric of business prosperity. That was the hardest test to which a senator from Pennsylvania had ever been put. It was the fiercest fight Senator Penrose had ever made. However, it was a successful fight, not so much for Senator Penrose as for the wage earners of this State, and naturally a very small harvest of political discontent is to be gathered from that particular battle field. To those who are distributing the germ of political unrest among the wage earners of Pennsylvania there must be mighty little comfort in the many announcements being made of increased wages in shops, factories and railroads, the very latest of which is the wage increase announced by the great Lehigh Valley railroad in which a vast army of employes will share.

Another political development which must be more or less discouraging to the disturbers is that announcement made officially after a recent conference of the Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania. The conference, it has been stated, was held in New York and followed a conference of national scope. State Chairman Arthur G. Dewalt, of Lehigh county, Colonel J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, the Democratic leaders of Philadelphia and Democratic leaders from other sections of the State were present. They were invited to join in another fusion movement in Pennsylvania, and as a rebuke to those who had blazed the way for them in former fusion movements they declared openly and without reservation that they would have no more fusion. They protested against the custom of turning over their party organization for the use of discontents who in season and out protest that they do not have political alliances and are known at all times to be out for selfish purposes and for personal advancement. It is clearly apparent that the Democratic organization is no longer to be at the service of political experimenters. There are in fact convincing evidences that the fever of unrest is not likely to find a breeding place in the Democratic organization of good old Pennsylvania.

A SOUTH SEA ROMANCE.

The Mutiny Long Ago on the Bounty, a British Man-of-war.

Who has not heard of the mutiny of the Bounty? The romance of it still lingers from one end of the Pacific to the other. The descendants of the mutineers of the British man-of-war and their dusky wives are living and bear English names made famous, or infamous, more than a century ago.

The British man-of-war had gone to Tahiti. The commander, Blythe, was harsh and cruel to his men. The women of Tahiti loved the fair skinned sailors and sought to hide them from Blythe, their oppressor, but they were captured, and the ship sailed away, but only to return. When it returned, in command was Fletcher Christian, midshipman, and a score of mutineers. The brute Blythe and his loyal companions had been set adrift in an open boat. Marvelous to relate, after traversing thousands of miles of open ocean they reached the Australian coast. Here they found a haven of refuge at a British outpost. For twenty years all trace of Fletcher Christian and his companions was lost, although searching expedition after expedition was sent to Tahiti by the British government.

Each of the mutineers save the romorseful Fletcher Christian took unto himself a wife. As it meant death to their husbands to live in Tahiti they helped the men they loved to man the boat that bore them away to seek some desert island. After sailing for many days in the extreme southern tripical sea the rock of Pitcairn arose before them.

Twenty years later a British merchantman sighted by chance the lone rock in the southern Pacific and sent a boat ashore. To the astonishment of the crew, dusky men and women ran down to the beach to welcome them in their own tongue and claimed to be "English." Only one old man among them, Adams, of pure British blood still survived. He was found, Bible in hand, teaching in the little Sunday school which he had built and where he had educated the children of the colony and taught them the tenets of the Christian faith.

When the news reached England a British man-of-war was sent for the last of the mutineers of the Bounty. Aboard was a king's pardon for Adams, so that, after all, he died a British subject, surrounded by his dusky children and grandchildren. The colony was then removed from the faraway southern isle to Tahiti, but homesickness overcame its members and they returned to the verdan rock.—New Idea Magazine.

INSECT STINGS.

Dangerous Always and Especially When One Is Run Down.

Stings and bites of insects are extremely dangerous at all times and especially when the system is not in a condition to resist the poison injected.

In many insects the nature of the poison has not been ascertained, while in most of them it is of an acid, irritant nature, in others it may contain a powerful cardiac sedative and depressant, and in still others organisms in pure or mixed cultures may be introduced with the sting or bite. Apart from the natural poison used by insects it should not be forgotten that flies and other insects that live on carrion may easily carry contagion and inoculate the persons whom they bite or sting.

In the case of ordinary bites and stings the chemical antidote is an alkaline solution, such as a strong solution of bicarbonate of soda or potash, which counteracts the acid of the sting. Suction at the wound in all these varieties of stings and bites will draw out some of the poison and until some antitoxin treatment can be found which will prove an antidote to the bacterial poison introduced little can be done beyond a stimulating and supporting treatment with attention to symptoms.—Health.

"Why Should Calamity Be Full of Words?"

The mere saying of words is easy, and some men devote their whole lives to it. They talk rather than act. The calamity howlers in any community are of this kind.

While the unsuccessful business man is talking the successful man is acting. When he speaks he uses words, but he tells facts. He seldom, however, depends upon his own voice.

He brings to his aid the trumpet tongued voice of the press.

He purchases space in the advertising columns of his local paper, and he uses it to good advantage.

This is your local paper.

There is space in these columns for use. Are you adding its strength to your voice? Properly used it will aid you.

"I've got a wonderful son," said the father of five—"my oldest, I mean. He came to me the other night with a subject for composition. He asked me to stand to write it for him. I put down my paper and wrote it. I flattered myself that I did rather well with that composition, it having been some time since I had had occasion to write one, but I hardly expected the encomium I got from him. The next day at dinner time he came rushing home, hurried up to me and slapped me on the back.

"'Hurrah for you, pops!' he cried. 'You are all right. You stand third in the class.'"—New York Press.

Art in Selling Hats.

"It makes you look small," says the saleslady to the big woman who is trying on the hat. Sold.

"It makes you look plump," she says to the slender woman. Sold.

"It makes you look young," she says to the obviously middle aged woman. Sold.

"It makes you look tall," she says to the short woman. Sold.

"It makes you look short," she says to the tall woman. Sold.

"It brightens your face," she says to the dark woman. Sold.

"It brings out your color," she says to the pale woman. Sold.

And all the hats were alike.—Judge.

"Less of your Courtesy, More of your Purse."

Even in these days sandbagging methods are sometimes employed in business

They don't pay, however.

An honest business, honestly conducted and persistently advertised will win sure in the long run

Without advertising it is doubtful. Advertising is the one thing most necessary

What of YOUR business?
Are you advertising it properly
Can't we help you?

"You are in the employ of that millionaire up on the hill, aren't you?" snapped the sharp faced woman who ran the butter and egg shop.

"Yes, ma'am," responded the man in the white apron, "and I want two pounds of butter for my master's table. He said he'd send to town after it, only the roads are so bad."

"He did, eh? Well, we are not particular about his trade. Did you tell him I said his money was tainted?"

"Indeed, I did."

"And what did he say?"

"Said so was your blamed old butter."—Chicago News.

Thrifty.

A Scotsman and his wife were traveling from Leith to London by boat. When off the Yorkshire coast a great storm arose, and the vessel had several narrow escapes from foundering.

"Oh, Sandy," moaned his wife, "I'm na afeard o' deein', but I dinna care to dee at sea."

"Dinna think o' deein' yet," answered Sandy; "but when ye do, ye'd better be drooned at sea than anywhere else."

"An' why, Sandy?" asked his wife.

"Why?" exclaimed Sandy. "Because ye wouldna cost sae muckle to bury."

Good Advice.

"Young man," said the boss, "come hither and listen." He approached. "When you've made a mistake forget it and go on to the next job. Don't potter around all day adding a lot of finishing touches."—Louisville Courier Journal.

There never was a day that did not bring its own opportunity for doing good that never could have been done before and never can be again.—W. H. Burleigh.

The new bill at the Coyle Theatre last night was a decided improvement over the one the first half of the week and Crawford and Meeker easily carried off first honors with their bright comedy and funny parodies.

De Angelo delighted the audience with his artistic rendition of classic and popular songs. That clever acrobatic duo, Ramzett and Lyman were very much appreciated as were Gardner and Fay in their singing and dancing specialty. Julia Edwards is one of the best "single's" that have been here for some time and her impersonation of a tough girl was very ludicious.

There will be the usual matinee tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., at which time a box of candy will be given to each lady and child attending.
